

Hiring: Assistant Project Manager

SEWA Cooperative Federation, Gujarat

About Us SEWA Cooperative Federation's history can be traced back to the Self-Employed Women's Association (SEWA) struggle for workers' rights. After its inception in 1972, SEWA has worked actively to promote the rights of women working in the informal economy. But, alongside the struggle for rights, SEWA members needed to earn a livelihood to become self-reliant. SEWA Federation has been working for and with women workers of the informal economy since 1992. The Federation is committed to women's economic empowerment and self-reliance through their own cooperatives.

Over the last 25 years, the Federation has organized 300,000 women into 106 primary cooperatives with a current annual turnover of ₹300 crores. All of these cooperatives are used, managed and owned by women. It is they who are the shareholders and are democratically elected to their own boards. These 106 cooperatives are in 6 sectors of the informal economy – agriculture, animal husbandry, services, savings and credit, production, and vending. The Federation has helped to incubate these cooperatives, support them to become economic viability and decision-making processes. It has also brought technical expertise to the grassroots women to help them become sustainable.

SEWA Federation offers support in the following streams: Business development; Marketing; Capacity building; Knowledge management (Research, communications, digital inclusion); and Finance. We are seeking a high-performing and motivated individual to join the team in Ahmedabad. The broad requirements that we are looking for in this position are listed below:

1. Masters or related degree in Economics, Sociology, Gender Studies, Development Studies or similar fields
2. 2-3 years of experience with project management
3. Excellent writing and communications skills
4. Experience with fundraising
